Drawing visitors into the colourful culture of the Cayman Islands, the “life-ways” of the people of the Islands are spectacularly featured in the main-floor space of the Old Court Room. From its centre-stage vantage point in the historical area, the Cultural Vignettes examine three aspects of Caymanian life – church, home and industry. Each dynamic display includes background mural, furnishings and historical items recreating the aspect’s rich history and culture. These themes are carried over into a nearby series of large photo panels, supplemented by a collage of historical images. Their associated titling and quotations offer visitors further details of these four essential sectors of the Islands’ cultural heritage.
